

config

Both the client and server projects have a file called config.xml. This is where the port and ip address to use are stored. If the current values do not work for you, you can change them there.